

STEAM Questions

---

1. As this picture depicts, the primary drink at meals in France in 1876 was wine. How did the drinking of wine as the primary beverage at meals directly lessen the chances of illness?
2. This painting focuses on beauty and people having a good time. Health care was very limited at this time. The lady dancing near the middle of the painting was a young, healthy, energetic, model by the name of Margot Legrand. Sadly, she died of typhoid two years after this painting was completed. What is typhoid?
3. What are the primary causes of typhoid? Identify the country reporting the most typhoid cases in recent years.
4. In his 50's Pierre-Auguste Renoir developed rheumatoid arthritis. What is it?
5. Renoir moved to the Mediterranean Sea coast in the South of France in 1907 to better cope with this crippling disease. Why move? What was the thinking?

