Evita Tezeno's paintings are widely collected by those who appreciate fine art including movie stars, television personalities and journalists. Her popularity as an artist is on the rise. As a young person her first goal was to graduate from high school. Once that goal was completed she went on to earn a degree from Lamar University. She encourages young people to take education seriously.

Her paintings have gained attention for their vivid colors and textures. She creates whimsical images through mixed media using handmade papers, acrylic paints and found objects. Her work is collected by many famous entertainers, media personalities and professional athletes.

She is also a youth mentor for teenage girls in need of direction, using art and creativity to encourage young people to be successful.
